

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

In a communication terminal device, the connecting state of a call can certainly and easily be controlled without learning troublesome operating methods which are different depending on the

a connecting state of a call as ~~the conventional device~~. ^{by} providing a ~~control means~~ ^{controller} for displaying processing items available to a call, ^a ona display means and controlling the call into the connecting state corresponding to the processing item which is selected and determined by the user's operation of the ^{an input unit} ~~input means~~, the user can control the connecting state of the call by merely selecting the desired processing item. ~~Thereby, the connecting state of the call can be~~ a ~~controlled certainly and easily without learning troublesome operating~~ c ~~methods which are different depending on the connecting state of the~~ c ~~call as the conventional device.~~